BOSTON MORNING POST.

PUBLISHED DAILY, AT NO. 21 WATER STREET, BY BEALS & GREENE.—CHARLES GORDON GREENE EDITOR.

VOLUME XIII. NO. 71. THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 24, 1837. PRICE $6 PER ANN. IN ADVANCE

MANHATTAN HOUSE,
NO. 68 DUANE-STREET, NEW YORK.

JAMES RYAN, from the Howard House, Boston, respectfully informs the public, that he has taken the large building in Duane street, 6 doors from Broadway, known as Rutger's College, for the purpose of a HOTEL and RESTAURANT. The interior of the building has been entirely taken out, and refitted expressly to suit the business of the present occupant.

Mr Ryan will keep the Manhattan House for the accommodation of Clubs and Parties. The best wines and Liquors will be furnished from his cellar, having been carefully selected from the best stocks in Boston, a large portion of them being of the celebrated stocks long in the cellar of Mr Gallagher, late of the Exchange Coffee House. Rooms will be furnished for References and Courts Martial. Transient and permanent boarders will be accommodated in the best style known in the country; and elegant apartments will be let, with or without board.

The Table d'Hote will be supplied with every delicacy of the various seasons. Breakfasts, Dinners and Suppers, of every description, will be served at short notice, and various Soups will be ready every day from eleven to three. Mr Ryan is confident that in this department, his own experience, added to the skill of the persons employed as cuisiniers, will enable him to please the most fastidious epicures, both in respect to quality and style.

Those friends who have known the character of Mr Ryan's House in Boston, he is assured, will find his accommodations better, his means more ample, and his diligence quite as untiring; and from such strangers in this city, as love excellence in the various departments of his profession, he would beg the favor of an early call, with the full hope of giving satisfaction.

☞ House was opened on the 15th June, 1837. eptf je17

MARLBORO' HOTEL.

The subscriber would respectfully give notice that he has taken the MARLBORO' HOTEL, and is now ready to see his friends. The house has been thoroughly repaired, enlarged, and neatly painted and papered. The furniture and bedding are new, and the accommodations in every respect are believed to be equal to any other Hotel in the city. No pains will be spared to furnish the table with every variety the market affords. Efforts will be made to furnish the table with the products of free labor, and provision will also be made for those who prefer vegetable diet. Religious worship will be regularly maintained every day, and as far as possible to prevent, no company be received or bills will be settled on the Sabbath. No smoking allowed. The Hotel will be kept entirely on the Temperance principles, and while not a particle of intoxicating liquor will be sold or used, it will be a quiet home for gentlemen travelling with their families, as well as for others. There are several suits of rooms for the accommodation of small families as permanent boarders Application for permanent board will be received at the Hotel every day. N. ROGERS.

PROPOSALS FOR LIGHT-HOUSE.

Treasury Department,
Fifth Auditor's Office, August 8, 1837.

PROPOSALS will be received at this office until the first day of September next, for building a light-house on Robbin's Reef, in the harbor of New York, of the following materials, dimensions, and description:—

FOUNDATION.

So much of the reef as may be necessary for the foundation, to be reduced to a level; the foundation to be laid so as to come close to the inner or northern side of the highest outer or southernmost rock; the form to be round, forty-eight feet diameter at the base, and forty-two at the top; eighteen feet high; the outside of the foundation to be a circular wall of eastern granite stone, fifteen feet thick at the base, and twelve feet thick at the top, carried up plumb on the inside, bevelling on the outside; headers seven feet six inches long, three feet wide; stretchers six feet long, three feet wide in the middle. All the stone to be eighteen inches thick, hammered to a fair bed and build, sides and ends, and to their requisite bevels; laid to break joints. The headers in the upper or top course to be nine feet long. The two upper courses to be laid in cement. The top of the wall to be covered with Connecticut Bolt'n stone, nine feet long, not less than three feet wide, and laid in cement, with sufficient slope to carry off the water. All the covering stones to be secured to those of the upper courses by composition clamps, one to each stone. Clamps two and a half inches wide, and half an inch thick; ends to be round, one end to be let into the top of the stone eight inches, one foot from the outer edge; the other to be let six inches into the second tier of stone; socket filled with lead. The area of the wall to be filled with stone to within six feet of the top, then to be covered with flat stone not less than six inches thick, laid in cement. The inside of the wall above this to be pointed with cement.

To be an iron circular railing around the top of the wall; cast iron posts three inches square, with a neckand ball on the top of a proportionate diameter; the posts to be let into the stone ten inches, to be filled in with lead, five feet apart and eight inches from the edge of the wall; to be five holes in each post to receive five round iron rails one and a quarter inches. The lower rail to be eight inches from the top of the wall; the others nine inches apart. One section of the railing to consist of an iron gate in two parts, to open inwards, and hung with substantial hinges, and proper fastenings. The two posts on which the gate is hung to be of wrought iron. On one side of the gate to be a crane of such size and strength as may be sufficient to hoist up whatever may be required for the use of the light house, fitted with all the necessary apparatus, including windlass, block and fall. Also, to be two iron davits well secured for hoisting up the boat with block and fall.—Wooden steps to lead from the gateway to the bottom of the foundation two feet wide; the upper end of the steps to be secured to the top of the wall by two eye-bolts in the stone, and two secured in the end of the steps by a strap; a bolt to pass through the eye bolt; to be a hinge in the middle of the steps. Six inches above the joint to be two eye-bolts to hook the tackle of the crane for hoisting the steps; four iron standards in each joint of the steps and two on the top of the wall, with eyes to pass through a man rope.

TOWER.

The exterior to be of eastern hammered granite, of an octagonal form, forty feet high from the top of the foundation to the top of the soap stone deck; twenty-six feet diameter at the angles at its base, & thirteen at the top; walls three feet thick at the base, graduated to two feet at the top; stone not less than nine inches thick, nor more than twelve, laid in cement; courses one foot high backed up with hard brick. One header to go through the wall in the middle of each octagon every fifth course. Cornice formed by the edge of the deck and upper course of stone, to be similar to the Egyptian crown moulding or cavetto and bead.

An arch to be turned at the top of the tower, on which is to be laid a soap stone deck, octagonal, four inches thick, fifteen feet diameter at the angles, reserving an entrance on one side of the arch to the lantern, twenty six inches by twenty-four.—The scuttle door of the entrance to be framed with iron, covered with copper, hung with hinges, with a ring to raise it; to shut into a rabbet in the deck.

The tower to be divided into four stories. The lower or first story to be finished nine feet in the clear; the second nine feet; the third eight feet. The joists for the lower floor to be laid two feet above the top of the foundation wall. Joists to be ten inches deep and three thick, laid twelve inches apart, bridged through the centre. The joists for the second and third stories to be nine inches deep, laid twelve inches apart. All the joists to be of yellow southern pine, and all the floors of the same, and one and a quarter inches thick, nailed with composition nails, and matched. To be two windows in each story; hammered granite sills; jambs and caps similar to the door. Strong frames made from yellow pine; sashes hung with weights Those in the first story to have twelve lights, 10 by 12; second story eighteen lights, 12 by 9; three sashes; the two lower hung; third story twelve lights, 10 by 8; fourth story twelve lights, 7 by 9; the glass to be of the Boston manufacture, double thickness; the two windows of the lower story to have shutters on the outside in two parts, two pannels each, made from hard pine; the windows in the second story to have inside shutters, in two parts, two pannels each; all the shutters to have composition hinges and fastenings; the second story to be divided into two rooms, the partition lathed and plastered, with a pannelled door; the first, second and third stories to be furred off, lathed, and plastered with two coats; stairs to lead from the lower floor into the fourth story in three flights, with cherry-tree railing and banisters; yellow pine steps; under the stairs in the lower floor to be a pannel door and stairs to lead to the bottom of the cellar;—such closets and shelves as may be found necessary; the first and third stories to be divided into two apartments each, if required; an iron ladder to go from the fourth story into the scuttle leading to the lantern; steps two inches wide; a door in the tower, to enter the first floor, seven feet high and three feet wide; hammered granite door posts, cap and sill; door posts fifteen by twenty-four inches at the bottom, and ten by twelve inches at the top, with rabbets on the inside two inches by one; to be three hammered granite steps five feet eight inches long, nine inches rise, and twelve inches tread, to lead from the top of the foundation to the door sill. The door to be six pannelled, two inches thick hung with strong hinges and hooks; hooks to go four inches into the door post, and leaded; strong latch and lock; the door to open inward. Outside of the door to be a small porch or screen, projecting two feet from the tower, four feet wide; door on the outside to open outwards, secured to the tower with dogs, so that it can be taken down in the summer. A door to enter the cellar from the outside, three feet wide; stone stills rabbeted to receive the platform; composition hooks, hinges, and hasp. At the second story to be an iron balustrade round the tower, supported by sixteen iron braces to go one foot into the wall, and project out twenty two inches. The top rail two feet four inches high from the supporters, rounded on the top; the bottom rail flat, two inches above the supporters; board floor of yellow pine. For the style of the work between the rails, see the drawing on file in the office of the Collector and superintendent at New York.

LANTERN.

On the top of the soap stone deck to be an iron lantern, octagonal. The posts of the octagon to be two inches square, to run down into the wall four feet. The height and diameter to be sufficient to admit twenty-one lights, fourteen by twelve glass in each octagon. The top of the lantern to be a dome formed by sixteen iron rafters concentrating in an iron hoop, six inches wide and nine inches diameter, half inch thick. The dome covered with copper, thirty-two ounces to the square foot. The copper to come down and turn under the top of the sash, and there rivetted through the top of the sash. On the top of the dome to be a traversing ventilator in the form of a ball, twenty inches diameter. On the top of the ball to be secured a vane representing a fish three feet long, and of proportionate width; ball and vane to be covered with copper. On one side of the ball to be a pipe three and a half inches diameter, projecting out nine inches; in one of the octagons to be an iron framed door five feet by two feet, covered with copper; the door to shut tight into rabbets, secured by two strong turn-buttons. The space over the door to be filled with a sash containing nine lights; the space on the side filled in with copper; the lantern to be glazed with thick plate glass, excepting the lower tier of the sashes which is to be filled in with copper panes. In four of the copper panes to be a ventilator three inches over, with slides on the inside.—Around the lantern to be a wrought iron balustrade, octagonal; posts one and a half inches square, inserted in the stone two inches, then run up perpendicularly seven feet ten inches, then turning at a right angle to the posts of the lantern, there secured with a bolt through the post with a nut and screw. The spaces between the posts to be filled with the railing of the balustrade; the top rail to be three feet eight inches above the deck, the lower four inches; the upper bar to be two inches wide, rounded on the top and smooth filed. (For the style of the work, see the drawing.) To be a copper electrical rod three fourth inch diameter, to run up two feet above the vane, secured to the railing post, and running down the side of the tower through the eyes of copper bolts, to the base; then turn off over the top of the foundation down to the bottom, entering the ground one foot; then to turn three feet, secured to the side of the foundation by copper eye bolts.

On the lower floor of the tower to be a cooking stove, with all the usual apparatus, of the most approved plan, of a size suitable to cook for ten persons. A copper funnel, four inches diameter, to lead from the stove through all the floors and deck into the lantern; to run near the posts of the lantern, through the dome between the rafters, and to rise one foot above the top of the dome. Apertures to be made in the floors for the funnel to pass up, sheathed with thick sheet lead or copper. In each of these apertures to be a soapstone conductor for the funnel, of a sufficient size to keep it six inches from the sheathing. In the cellar to be ten good white oak water casks, to contain forty gallons each—staves three-fourths of an inch thick, with ten stout iron hoops, painted two coats. All the wood work in the tower, excepting the floors and tread of the stairs, to be painted with two good coats. All the iron work and copper, painted three coats, black.*

All the above work to be done in a faithful and workmanlike manner, and to the satisfaction of the Superintendent at New York, or of such person as he shall appoint to inspect the same, on or before the 15th day of October, 1838.

Separate proposals will be received at the same time for fitting up the said light-house, on or before the 1st day of November, 1838, with fifteen patent lamps and fifteen sixteen inch patent reflectors; each reflector to be plated with at least six ounces of pure silver; and for furnishing two spare lamps and reflectors; seven double tin oil butts, to hold ninety gallons each; a tin wick-box and tube-box; a three gallon oil carrier, a torch lamp, a feeder, a hand lantern and lamp, a fourteen gallon cannister, six wick formers, two pair of scissors, two files and a glazier's diamond—all the articles made of tin to receive two coats of paint.

Eight thousand dollars to be paid when the foundation shall be be carried up sufficiently high to receive the tower; and the residue when the entire building shall be completed and accepted. M&T1S1 aug14

NOTICE.—The subscribers having taken the Factory, Tools and Machinery of the Eagle India Rubber Company, in the Easterly part of Woburn, will continue the manufacture of all kinds of India Rubber Goods. Aware of the prejudice existing against goods of this description, caused by imperfect articles with which the market has been flooded for months past, still they feel confident, with the assurance of two years successful operation, in offering to the public goods superior to any before in the market for beauty or durability, perfectly water proof, and warranted not to decompose in any climate. Purchasers are invited to call at ALEXANDER STROUGS, Shoe Store, 401 Washington street, and examine for themselves, where orders may be left, or sent to them at the Factory in Woburn.

A MOST USEFUL DISCOVERY IN BOTANY, FOR SICKNESS WHICH AFFLICT HUMANITY.

DR. BONAUD, a native of France, after spending a long time in the study of Botany, has discovered the unrivalled Switzerland Compound Vegetable Powder, which is a high and important remedy for the cure of recent and chronic sickness. The benefit that every one has received in this city, has rendered it quite a popular medicine—thousands of certificates have been given up to Dr B., by the persons cured or relieved, as testimony for the good they have received. It is particularly recommended for the following diseases:—

Headache, Rheumatism, Asthma, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Affection of the Liver, Eruptions on the Skin, Tic doloro, Ulcers, Sore Legs, Worms, Affection of the Chest, Obstruction, Female Diseases, Fistula, Cancer, Syphilis, or secret sickness, and all disorders coming from impurities of the blood.

The extraordinary efficacy of this unrivalled medicine for the above diseases has given it a popularity above any expression. Dr Bonaud, the inventor, warrants it not to contain any mercury or metallic substances, being a pure produce of vegetables—he invites the persons affected with recent or chronic sickness to whom any other medicine proved to be useless, to call upon him at his office, Barrister's Hall, School street, and try his unrivalled medicine, which never failed in removing diseases. MISCELLANY.

MR WILLIS'S NEW TRAGEDY,
BIANCA VISCONTI, OR THE HEART OVER-TASKED.

WRITTEN FOR MISS CLIFTON.

For one character in this play, we venture to promise no common popularity, says the New York Mirror. The author has wisely lightened the deep emotion of which it is wrought, by the introduction of a humorous vein, supported principally by Pasquali, a whimsical poet. The character, he tells us, was written for Mr Placide. We will commence our extracts with a scene between him and Fiametta, the heroine's waiting-woman, who is enamored of the poet, and whose simple ignorance makes an admirable foil of his sublimations. The first scene in the second act represents the square of Milan, and the cathedral in which the marriage of Sforza and Bianca is solemnizing. Pasquali and Fiametta enter in haste:

ACT II.—SCENE I.

[The square of Milan. The front of the cathedral on the right. People kneeling round the steps, and the organ heard within. Enter PASQUALI and FIAMETTA in haste.]

Fiam.—Now, Master Pasquali! said I not we should be too late.

Pasq.—Truly, there seems no room!

Fiam.—And I her first serving-woman! If it were my own wedding I should not grieve more to have miss'd it. You would keep scribbling, scribling, and I knew it was past twelve.

Pasq.—Consider, Mistress Fiametta! I had no news of this marriage till the chimes began; and the epithalamium must be writ! I were ashamed else, being the bard of Milan.

Fiam.—The what of Milan?

Pasq.—The bard, I say! Come aside, and thou shalt be consoled! I'll read thee my epithalamium.

Fiam.—Is it something to ask money of the bridegroom?

Pasq.—Dost thou think I would beg?

Fiam.—Nay—thou 'rt very poor?

Pasq.—Look thee, Mistress Fiametta! that's a vulgar error, thou hadst best be rid of. I, whom thou callest poor, am richer than the duke.

Fiam.—Now, if thou 'rt not out of thy ten senses, the Virgin bless us.

Pasq.—I'll prove it even to thy dull satisfaction. Answer me truly. How many meals eats the duke in a day?

Fiam.—Three, I think, if he be well.

Pasq.—So does Pasquali! How much covering has he?

Fiam.—Nay—what keeps him warm.

Pasq.—So has Pasquali! How much money carries he on his person?

Fiam.—None, I think. He is a duke, and needs none.

Pasq.—Even so Pasquali! He is a poet and needs none. What good does him the gold in his treasury?

Fiam.—He thinks of it.

Pasq.—So can Pasquali? What pleasure hath he in his soldiers?

Fiam.—They keep him safe in his palace.

Pasq.—So they do Pasquali in his chamber. Thus far, thou'lt allow, my state is as good as his—and better—for I can think of his gold, and sleep safe by his soldiers, yet have no care of them.

Fiam.—I warrant he has troubled thoughts.

Pasq.—Thou sayest well. Answer me once more, and I'll prove to thee in what I am richer. Thou 'st ne'er heard, I dare swear, of imagination.

Fiam.—Is 't a Pagan nation, or a Christian?

Pasq.—Stay—I'll convey it to thee by a figure. What were the value of thy red stockings over black if it were always night?

Fiam.—None.

Pasq.—What were beauty if it were always dark?

Fiam.—The same as none.

Pasq.—What were green leaves better than brown—diamonds better than pebbles—gold better than brass—if it were always dark?

Fiam.—No better, truly.

Pasq.—Then the shining of the sun, in a manner, dyes your stockings, creates beauty, makes gold and diamonds, and paints the leaves green?

Fiam.—I think it doth.

Pasq.—Now mark! There be gems in the earth, qualities in the flowers, creatures in the air, the duke ne'er dreams of. There be treasuries of gold and silver, temples and palaces of glorious work, rapturous music, and feasts the gods sit at—and all seen only by a sun, which, to the duke, is black as Erebus.

Fiam.—Lord! Lord! Where is it, Master Pasquali.

Pasq.—In my head! (Fiametta discovers signs of fear.) All these gems, treasuries, palaces, and fairy harmonies I see by the imagination I spoke of. Am I not richer now?

Fiam.—(Retreating from him.) Oh, the Virgin helps us! He thinks there 's a sun in his head! I thought to have married him, but he 's mad! Oh Lord! Oh Lord! (She falls to weeping.)

We will give one other bit of his philosophy. After the duke's death, Fiametta is arranging his scanty wardrobe that he may go becomingly to the funeral.

ACT IV.—SCENE I.

[PASQUALI'S chamber. FIAMETTA sitting with his cap in her hand.]

Fiam.—What wilt thou do for a black feather, Pasquali?

Pasq.—Hast thou no money?

Fiam.—No, save my dowry of six pieces.

Pasq.—Give the pieces to me, and thy dowry will be ten times greater.

Fiam.—An it be not six times less, I will never trust counting upon my fingers.

Pasq.—Hast thou no dread of dying uncelebrated?

Fiam.—If it be a sin, I have a dread of it by baptism.

Pasq.—Is it a sin to neglect thy immortality?

Fiam.—Ay, it is.

Pasq.—Then take heed how thou fallest into sin—for to be the friend of a poet is to be immortal, and thou art no friend of mine if I have not thy six pieces.

Fiam.—But how shall I have six times more, Master Pasquali?

Pasq.—In reputation! Wouldst thou marry a fool?

Fiam.—No, truly.

Pasq.—Then if thy husband is wise he will be more proud than thou art famous, than covetous of thy six pieces.

Fiam.—And shall I be famous? (Gives him the money.)

Pasq.—Thou wilt live when Sforza is dead!

Fiam.—Is not Sforza famous, then?

Pasq.—He hath fame while he lives, and so had King Priam of Troy. But if Homer had not written, Priam would have been forgot and Troy too; and if Sforza live not in poetry, he is as dead in a century—as thou and Laura were but for thy favours to Petrarch and Pasquali.

Fiam.—Why does not Sforza give thee six pieces and be immortal?

Pasq.—Truly—he pays more for a less matter! It is the blindness of great men that they slight the poets. Look here now—hath not Sforza shed blood, and wasted treasure, and taken a thousand murders on his soul, to leave a name after him?

Fiam.—I misdoubt he hath.

Pasq.—Now will I, whom he thinks less worthy than a trumpeter, sit down, and with scrape of my pen, make a dog's name more known to posterity.

Fiam.—When thou speakest of a dog, I think of my lady's page. Canst thou tell me why she should loves him out of reason?

Pasq.—Canst thou tell me why the moon riseth not every night as the sun every day?

Fiam.—No—truly.

Pasq.—Neither can I give thee reason for a woman's fancy—which is as unaccountable in its caprice as the moon in its changes. Hence the sun is called "he," the moon "she."

Fiam.—Holy Virgin—what it is to be learned!

Pasq.—Come, Fiametta! spend thy dowry while thy mind is enlightened!

Fiam.—If I should repent now!

Pasq.—Think not of it. If thou shouldst repent to-morrow I shall still go becomingly to the funeral, and thou wilt be famous past praying for. Come away!

Of Miss Clifton's playing in the character of Bianca we have great expectations. She rises into a noble actress whenever the pathos of the character soars to the full measure of her remarkable energy. She is all a woman, and plays like an earnest and true one when (if we may so express it) her heart overtakes her head. The play is written with a view to call out the natural fire and force which have made her playing so popular in the Bianca of Fazio, and with this, and her commanding person, which represents the character exactly, we are confident she cannot fail to win herself a lasting reputation in it. We trust this promise of excellence in dramatick composition will not be checked by ungenerous or premature criticism.—There is a bit of wisdom on that subject, by the way, in Pasquali's philosophy, and we will close our notice of the play with that part of the scene which embodies it.

Pasq.—Well met, Fiametta! what news of thy mistress?

Fiam.—I am e'en now sent for a priest.

Pasq.—What! is she in extremity?

Fiam.—No! she is in her chamber—but refuseth food and so will die.

Pasq.—Nay—I trust heaven she will not! why, my poor lady! loved she the page so well?

Fiam.—Ay—there's sharp news abroad that he was not what he seemed.

Pasq.—Gossip—gossip! but God bless us! to think of your mistress taking it so to heart. Will she die, think you?

Fiam.—If God please—but I think she must!

Pasq.—Then is there no more hope of poetry.

Fiam.—How, no more.

Pasq.—Thus! Men, though for one month in their lives (that in which they first fall in love) are fond of poetry—have, for the most part, toward poets a natural aversion.

Fiam.—As I have for a puppy.

Pasq.—Just like it! the true lovers of poetry are women—who are poetical alike in youth and age.

Fiam.—In age, too!

Pasq.—Ay! It smoulders like coals under ashes. The fire is there long after the hearth is done shining.

Fiam.—But why dies it with my mistress?

Pasq.—I have shown thee that but for women there were no poetry. Poets have no friends but women, on the praises of women do they live. Now thy mistress, for she represents her sex—for in Milan there is no other that praiseth the works of Pasquali. I shall ne'er be praised more, Fiametta.

Fiam.—But must you be praised ere you make verses?

Pasq.—Can you fly without air?

Fiam.—I cannot fly at all!

Pasq.—But I could once—on the breath of thy mistress.

Fiam.—Tell me no more lies, now!

Pasq.—Stay—couldst thou dance without blood in thy leg?

Fiam.—I never thought on't! yet now thou speakest of it, I have felt it trickle in my heels when the music sounded.

Pasq.—As blood in thy leg, then, when thou wouldst dance, there must be praise in thy memory if thou wouldst write. I dare swear now thou workest better in thy vocation when thy mistress hath found fault with thee?

Fiam.—Is "vocation" to do broidery?

Pasq.—Ay!

Fiam.—Then 'tis like I do!

Pasq.—Just so! the cudgel that makes the beast draw, knocks the bird flat. I am the bird and thou art the beast.

The Miser's Daughter, the new drama represented at the National on Monday night, is a clever piece in two acts, somewhat in the Shylock key. The miser's wife dies and leaves an infant daughter under the care of the miser's brother, the father being absent in India. After many years the miser returns—his daughter has been carefully educated, and tenderly reared by his brother; the miser is very careful to refund him all that has been expended for Anne's benefit. The uncle becomes embarrassed by the extravagance of his son Charles, who is betrothed to Anne, his cousin. Charles demands Anne of her father—is refused—Anne and Charles separate by the command of her father, yet remain devoted to each other. The creditors of the uncle press upon him—he writes to his brother, the miser, for aid to save him from prison—the miser refuses it—Anne learns his distress—ascertains through Sally Chips, her maid, where her father hides his gold, and allows Sally to steal a bag, which she immediately despatches to rescue her kind uncle—the miser ascertains his loss—is frantic—Anne, to save Charles from the suspicion of robbery, declares herself to be the thief—Sally, unwilling that her mistress should suffer, contradicts her, and avows that she stole it. Amid the confusion produced by the loss of the money and the contradictory confessions of Sally and Anne, Charles arrives—in despair at the situation of his father, unaware that he has been relieved, he siezes the miser by the throat and insists upon his loaning his brother sufficient money to save him from a prison—the miser says he has no money—that he has been robbed, and calls for help to arrest Charles—Anne informs Charles of what she has done, whereupon Charles declares that it was he who took the gold, determined to reward Anne for her generous act by "assuming the responsibility" of her offence. His acknowledgement pleases the miser, and his eye lights up with the satisfaction of anticipated revenge—but just as the officers are on the point of arresting Charles, in steps Mr Lawyer Flint, who was made the executor of the will of the misers' wife, in which ten thousand pounds were bequeathed to Anne, and which had remained in the miser's hands unbeknown to any one save Flint—however, Charles offers to let the miser keep Anne's legacy provided he will give his consent to their marriage, and say no more about the lost cash—the miser is glad to accept of the compromise, and the marriage ends the piece. Mrs Anderson in Anne Ivy looked remarkably well, and played the character with that calm simplicity and pathos which the author intended should characterise the accomplished and generous-hearted daughter of the miser. Mrs Smith's Sally Chips was full of spirit, and drew forth much applause. Mr Ayling, as the miser, did pretty well—yet his voice was rather too firm and sonorous, and his movements too quick and elastic, occasionally, for a very old man. Mr Leman did Charles very well, except his too rapid enunciation. Mr Saunder's in Flint was dressed more like a parson than a "twig of the law"—a fault general among actors. Mr Marshall is an improvement upon the man they had at the National last year for servants, &c.

Inhuman Mother.—On Friday, an Irishwoman residing in the attic of a three story house in the upper part of the city, locked up her child, a little boy aged about three years, in a garret bed-room by itself, got drunk and went into the street, where she was picked up by the watch and committed to Bridewell, leaving her helpless infant in the desolate condition described above nearly a day and half without food or drink. It was discovered by some of the neighbors on Saturday morning, at one of the garret windows, feebly crying for its unnatural parent, when it was taken from its prison and given to the charge of the keeper of the Alms House.—N. Y. Transcript.

Maternal Affection.—A poor woman, on ascending the ladder of the ship Nestor on Saturday, for New Orleans, gave her child to a laborer on the wharf, who in handing it to the mother, let it fall into the dock! The mother was standing on the rail, about 15 feet from the water, whence she leaped and saved her child, amid the cheers of several hundred persons, and for this bold act of affection and humanity, the agent of the ship gave her a free passage and a dollar.

The Gem, that beautiful yacht in which the Marquis of Waterford visited this country, has been so much damaged by a gale in the Bay of Biscay, as to be rendered totally unserviceable.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1837.

NOTICE.—The Democratic Republican citizens of Boston, friendly to the National Administration, are requested to assemble in the Old Supreme Court Room, Court square, on MONDAY Evening, 28th instant, at half past 7 o'clock, for the purpose of electing seventy-five delegates to attend the Convention to be holden at Worcester, on Wednesday, the 20th day of September next. By order of the County Committee.

PETER DUNBAR, Chairman.

SETH J. THOMAS, Secretary.

Later from England.—The ship Trenton, from Liverpool, arrived here yesterday, having sailed from that port one day later than previous advices, but brought no papers!

☞The mail papers brought us no news yesterday about the Western Elections—the whigs have probably gained some half dozen members of Congress, but then this is no reason why the Atlas should tare up its flannel shirt to make cartridges of, or stuff its old trowsers into a whig swivel for wadding.

☞A meeting of the Committee of Public Safety is notified to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal of John O. Sargent, Esq. to New York.

The Nashua Telegraph will have it that the democrats, as a party, are in favor of admitting Texas into the Union—this is incorrect—the warmest advocate of Texas is a leading whig in the U. S. Senate—Mr Preston of S. C. The whigs try to make every subject a party question—removing the Indians—carrying the mails on Sundays—fulfilling treaties—admitting new States—mercantile failures—short crops, &c. &c.—but their hobby generally throws them as soon as they get fairly astride of his back.

The whigs boast that they have got a son of the "Old Harry" in the Kentucky Legislature, and if they could only elect the "Old Boy" President, we should have a devil of a time of it, all round.

Innate Antipathies.—The Philadelphia Public Ledger contained, sometime since, certain remarks under this head, which we were surprised to see in a paper generally abounding in good sense. The remarks have been copied into several papers without comment, and we suppose with sanction. All such notions, we would inform our editorial brethren, have long been exploded among learned physiologists. Darwin, we believe, was the last philosopher of any note, who advocated the doctrine that antipathies in the offspring are occasioned by an accident happening to the mother before the birth of the child. At the present day, such doctrines find no advocates at all among the learned. Children, undoubtedly, inherit the constitution, temperament, and confirmed habits, of the parents, in a greater of less degree, but that a sudden emotion of the mind of the mother should produce such effects upon the offspring, as these which follow, is wholly preposterous.—Several of the papers have stated that there is a young man in Vermont who could not speak to his own father, on account of a misunderstanding that arose between his parents previous to his birth. The wife had refused, for a considerable length of time, to speak to her husband, and the physiological consequence of this circumstance is, that the child born after the reconciliation, though able to talk to other people, is entirely dumb in the presence of his father. The N. Y. Era relates a similar instance in a child about five years of age, who is thrown into an agony of terror at the sight of his father's sister, which antipathy is supposed to have arisen from an altercation which ensued between his mother and father's sister previous to his birth. Several other cases are mentioned equally ridiculous. We really fear that with the assistance of the Animal Magnetisers, Phrenologists, and Mormonites, some of our editorial brethren would soon carry us back again to the intellectual condition of the dark ages.

A precious morceau for British travellers.—The late English journals appear to be more than usually filled with catalogues of crime from their "high nobility" to the abandoned and degraded wife of the celebrated Greenacre, now on her way to New South Wales.

Indeed, we think Capt. Hall of Her Majesty's Navy, a Trollope, of whom we know nothing save of her scribblings, a Martineau, with her snuff-box and abolition doctrines, and last, not least, the Rev. McFidler, could be far more profitably employed at home, in attempting, however desperate the task might appear, to correct the dissolute manners of their nobility, and to alter the worse than Heathenish and Hottentot laws which regulate their parish poor, than by travelling through this country to visit our asylums, penitentiarics and prisons, to seek subjects for English ridicule, and for their ill-nature and ill-placed criticisms.

We would recommend to the attention of Messrs Fidler and Hall, to Madam Trollope, and Miss Martineau, the following extract, as taken from the last number of the London Examiner, and ask these would-be critics, if they have ever seen in this country, from Maine to Georgia, any thing which would compare in degradation and inhumanity, with this nefarious practice as now existing in civilized England:

"Shocking Punctilio.—A correspondent of the Times describes a most offensive sight which met his eye, near the Isle of Dogs, in going to Greenwich by steam. I observed, he says, a man in the water naked, and who, I thought, was endeavoring to hide himself under the surface of the water until the boat had passed; I pointed him out to a gentleman who stood by, and to the mate of the vessel. Judge my horror when I was told it was the body of a man drowned while bathing, and who lay there, tied by his neck to a boat, in order that the adjacent parish should not be obliged to bury him, which I believe it was said, they would have to do, had he been landed or washed on shore!!"

☞N. Dearborn & Son, have published a beautifully engraved Chart of Boston Harbor, on a card about six inches square. It will be very convenient for pleasure parties, when they go down in boats—all the fishing grounds, &c. being distinctly marked.

The Tremont was full again last night to see Booth and Scott. To night Booth appears as Cassius, in Julius Cæsar, with Scott, as Mark Antony, and Mr Barry, as Brutus.

☞The City Government behaved themselves very well at the School Dinner yesterday, the boys say. Some good speeches, and a few witty toasts, were offered at the table.

☞The Directors of the Boston Asylum and Farm School will visit that Institution to-day, in company with several invited guests.

☞Why is Mr H. H. Weld greater than Icarus?

Because he has reached the sun without melting his wings.

☞"Roxbury Street" is received, but we reckon that there has been enough said upon the subject referred to, in the Post.

The Herald thinks that the Tremont theatre is as much superior to the Park as spermaceti beats tallow.

Mr Greene.—The most preposterous absurdity in the history of legislation with which I am acquainted, is the absence of any law in this Commonwealth, requiring Municipal Corporations to remunerate for damages sustained by mobs. The first principle—the very substratum of social organization is—that, whereas the individual yields to society a portion of his natural rights, society, in consideration thereof, covenants to secure him in the enjoyment of his other rights, among the chief of which is that of property. He pays the premium of Insurance, and looks to the community for indemnity against damage occasioned by unlawful outrage. But, under our present laws, he not only cannot claim such idemnity, but he is not allowed to exercise even his natural right to protect his property in its full extent. Thus then he pays his premium for nothing.

I do not know that this question has ever been made the subject of Judicial investigation in this State, but if there is any such thing as Common law here, I cannot but believe that an action for damages against a town or city, for injuries sustained by a mob, would be decided for the plaintiff, notwithstanding the absence of any statutory provision. If I recollect aright the laws of England do or did require the inhabitants of every "hundred" to reimburse such damages.

If, however, there is no law written or unwritten, on this subject; if an innocent individual may see the accumulations of years of toil and hardship swept to destruction in a moment by a lawless mob, and himself rendered a helpless, hopeless beggar, I, for one, would say, Restore us "the good old rule," "the simple plan"—"that they should take who have the power, and they should keep who can."

I make these remarks without reference to any particular case; and have purposely chosen a time when this community is not agitated by any very recent outbreak of mobocratic violence.

I trust another session of the Legislature will not pass without a law defining the liability of Municipal Corporations on this subject; that we may no longer present the practical solecism of a community assembled for mutual security and protection in theory, but for mutual plunder without redress, in fact. D. J. U.

Speculations and Projects.—The following remarks from Blackwood may be interesting and useful to Americans at the same time:—"There are years, which have like ages, their characteristics. The year 1825 was the well known year of panic. It was also the year of projectors. The plans set on foot for getting rid of the national money were on the most gigantic scale, and it was computed (if we do not much mistake) that the capital, if fully subscribed, would have amounted to three hundred millions sterling. Some of this extravagance was undoubtedly due to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, now Lord Ripron, who thence obtained for himself the sobriquet of Prosperity Robinson; his Lordship having in the fullness of his heart, said that the great difficulty of the nation, in the sudden tide of wealth that was to pour in upon us, would be how to spend it. Some was to be laid to the charge of the bank, which by the sudden lowering of its discounts, apparently opened the national purse for every hand that would take the trouble to plunge into it. Some to the natural passion of all men for showy speculation, but more than all to the very busy and very knavish intrigues of the whole host of brokers, solicitors, and dealers connected with the money market of England. It is a remarkable instance of the short-sightedness which seizes on the wisest, when avarice once lays hold of them, that with the exception of one or two enterprises, in Spanish and Portuguese colonial mines, there is probably not one of these projects in existence at the present moment. The mere list of them would be curious. Every part of the earth was made the location of some new contrivance for marvellous wealth. Gum companies for Africa—Ivory companies for India—companies for cutting down the American forests, were among the most familiar conceptions. It is equally remarkable, as an instance of the blindness which cannot discover obvious utility, as well as of the precipitation which hurries men into waste, that there was probably not a single attempt, in the whole list, at any of those contrivances for locomotion, which have since opened such important views to mankind."

☞They seem to be getting a little seventy-sixish up in Canada, as the following correspondence showeth:—

The Civil Secretary's Letter to the Hon. L. J. Papineau, in his quality of Major of militia.

Castle of St. Lewis,
Quebec, 12th August, 1837.

Sir—The attention of the governor in chief having lately been called to a report contained in the Vindicator newspaper of the 16th May last, of the proceedings of a meeting held on the previous day at St Laurent, in which you are stated to have taken an active part, and where resolutions were passed, some of which distinctly recommend a violation of the laws, I am directed by his excellency to call upon you as one holding a commission in the militia, to state whether you were present at that meeting, and concurred in the resolutions there passed; and if so, I am to inquire whether you have any explanation to offer in this matter.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Your most obdt. humble servant,
S. WALCOTT, Civil Secretary.

The Hon L. J. Papineau,
Major 3d battalion Montreal militia, Montreal.

The Hon L. J. Papineau's reply to the above.

Montreal, 14th August, 1837.

Sir—The pretension of the Governor to interrogate me respecting my conduct at St Laurent on the 15th May last, is an impertinence which I repel with contempt and silence.

I however take the pen merely to tell the Governor that it is false that any of the resolutions adopted at the meet- of the county of Montreal, held at St Laurent on the 15th of May last, recommended a violation of the laws, as in his ignorance he may believe, or as he, at least, asserts.

Your obedient servant,
L. J. PAPINEAU.

Samuel Walcott, Civil Secretary.

Music.—The lovers of this "divine art" had a rich treat last night at the Temple, in the performances of the Prague Company. These "minstrels" understand their occupation, and notwithstanding the stupifying effects of the dog-days, thrilled the listeners' hearts to its lowest depths. German music, as performed by them, is indeed, the "harmonized electro-magnetism of the soul."

Absence of mind.—A man thinking he was at home a few evening since, laid down on the Common and put his boots outside the gate to be blacked in the morning.

Another person after getting home one rainy night, put his umbrella in bed, and leaned up in the corner himself.

Remarkable.—In Titicut, on deacon Simons's farm, there is a stalk of corn which measures fourteen feet eight inches and a quarter, and on the end of it is a full blown moss-rose!

Weeks, Jordan & Co., have sent us the Kickerbocker for August.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

"The Artful Half-bushel."—This interesting case terminated yesterday. Mr Choate assailed with great effect the veracity, and concealed vindictiveness of Bryant, the only witness who ever pretended to know that Mr Staniells used the false measure. On the other hand, Mr Parker seized upon the fact that Staniells had sued for $30.00 less than the bill he had presented to Lovejoy, the private prosecutor. After a clear and impartial charge by Judge Thacher, the jury retired, and in two or three minutes they came in with a verdict of Not Guilty, as was anticipated by every one who had paid any attention to the character of the evidence.

James Harrigan was convicted of keeping a disorderly and riotous sailor-boarding house, in Battery March street. He for some time persisted in defiance of the law to sell ardent spirits to his boarders, and frequent disturbances, within and without the house were the consequences.

The following is a list of the Girls and Boys to whom THE MEDALS were awarded after the examination of the Public Schools on Wednesday and Thursday:—

Supposed Pirate.—The Danish brig Mack, Captain Chase, from St Croix, for Philadelphia, in lat. 23, lon 68, on the 9th July, was boarded about sunset by 9 men in a boat, each having on a short duck frock, from a vessel about 8 miles to leeward—which they reported to be a Spanish brig from Sierra Leon, bound to N. Orleans, 60 days out, with 160 passengers. The weather was nearly calm, and the vessel was first seen early in the afternoon. The boat had several small kegs, which they said they brought to get water. There appeared to be but little subordination among them; and as soon as they came along side of the Mack, the whole of them came under the quarter-deck, and asked for some water. The captain gave them a barrel of water, which was all he could spare. They then requested him to alter his course and bear down for the brig—as they said their boat was leaky, and could not carry the water. The captain asked them why so many came in her if she was leaky, as four were enough to row her. To this they made no reply. They remained on board till quite dusk, when the captain peremptorily ordered them to leave his vessel, which they showed no disposition to do, repeating that their boat was leaky and unsafe—and telling the captain, "do n't be afraid." But as the brig had a strong crew, equal in number to them, and a large dog, and a passenger (from New York), who let them see the ends of two horse pistols under his coat, they at length, when it was quite dark, left the brig. The next morning nothing was seen of them. The circumstances render it very likely that it was the same vessel which boarded the Tantivy.

How is this?—Why have neither of the opposition organs in this city alluded to the promises to pay, issued by the "Georgia Lumber Company," and forced into circulation here and at the West, and doubtless to some extent, all over the State, save perhaps in the city of Rochester and the region neighboring immediately on the places of residence of the president and secretary? Whence the spiking of that artillery, but how vocal at the appearance even afar off, of what they called the "better currency"? Are the notes of the Georgia Lumber Company, whose fixtures are in Georgia, whose place of business is in Maine, and whose business itself is principally transacted in this State where its officers reside—are these better than that "better currency," because they have the appearance of a common bank bill, and may deceive those whom the "better currency" would not? Why, we repeat, have the conductors of the opposition organs here, omitted to put the public on their guard against this new emission of the "better currency?" We pause for a reply.—Albany Argus.

Every merchant in Salem knows, or may know from his own ledger, if he will take pains to inspect it, that the government of the United States for the last eight years, has been managed so as to take better care of the interests of the merchants, than ever before since Washington's time. Yet one of their organs hopes he shall see no more "nonsense" and "flummery" in our paper, and the Advertiser, about the particular regard of the government for mercantile interest. Is eight hundred thousand dollars old debts, paid in Essex, FLUMMERY? That is the flummery which you see in our paper, but the merchants like it.—Gloucester Democrat.

Eccentricity.—By accident, Dr. Abernethy saw a young lady, whose manners, person, conversation, style, family and connections smote his hard heart. He immediately proposed to her mother—"If you and your daughter have no objections, I shall marry her at 9 o'clock precisely," taking out his watch and looking at it—"at 9 o'clock precisely, on Thursday morning next. Let me know your answer to-morrow by 10 o'clock. We can make love and court each other, at our leisure, after the marriage." The mother laughed and told her daughter—the daughter blushed and laughed—and blushed and laughed again—"How odd!" said she, consenting. They were married and lived happily.—N. Y. Herald.

The St Louis Bulletin of the 11th inst. has the following annunciation of the conclusion of an important treaty with the Chippewa Indians:—

Capt Vanhouten of the steamer Adventure, from Prairie du Chien, furnishes us with the following authentic account of the Chippewa Treaty; "Governor Dodge has concluded a treaty with the Chippewa Indians, for a Territory supposed to contain twenty million acres of land for eight hundred and seventy thousand dollars including Indian Traders claims. In the above sum according to treaty, half-breed donations are to be granted. Gov Dodge was on his return from the treaty, and hourly expected at the Prairie when the Adventurer left."

GENERAL JACKSON'S LETTER.

Hermitage, June 5, 1837.

GEN. W. TROUSDALE,—

Sir—Your letter of the 4th instant, from Carthage, has just reached me, and although laboring under a bad headache, and other afflictions, I hasten to answer it.

I regret to hear that Mr Campbell has charged me with being favorable to a United States Bank, and that I have advocated the constitutionality of such an institution. I have always been opposed to the United States Bank on constitutional grounds. There is no such grant of power to Congress, in the Constitution, and before Congress can constitutionally exercise such power, the people must make the grant. In the Convention that formed it, various propositions were made to introduce the grant of power to Congress to create corporations; and all were rejected by large majorities, and if the power was asked of the people, I as one of them, would now withhold it.—The idea of a sovereign power granting a charter for a Bank of stockholders, and then, (as was the case of the United States Bank,) the same sovereign power that granted it, becoming a member of that incorporated body, or a stockholder, is such an absurdity, that I never could reconcile it to myself—it's a dangerous combination of power and never ought to exist.

Mr Webster's speech, as well as that of Mr Clay in 1811—(the greatest either ever made) clearly show that there is no such constitutional power granted to Congress. Congres can, as it did before the formation of this Constitution, provide by law that the revenue should be deposited with the Collector, or any other agent it may choose to appoint, for its safe keeping, and application to the use for which the revenue was raised; but has no power to establish or incorporate a Bank of issues and stockholders.

I write in much pain and regret that young Mr Campbell has done me so much injustice as to ascribe to me such principles, and he can produce my plan of a Bank if ever I made one to Congress—it must have been accompanied by my message to that body—but I expect he has never seen such. He takes the ipse dixit of Mr Bell for the fact—I suppose. Call for the information of my plan. You will please excuse this hasty scrawl, as I write it by candle light, and in much pain, and am very respectfully your obedient servant. ANDREW JACKSON.

Yankee Courtship.—Jonathan Dunbatter saw Prudence Feastall at meeting—Jonathan sidled up to Prudence arter meeting, and she kind a sidled off. He went closer and axed her if she would accept the crook o' his elbow. She resolved she would, and plumped her arm right round his. Jonathan felt alloverish and said he liked the text, "seek and ye shall find," was purty good readin. Prudence hinted, that "ask and ye shall receive" was better. Jonathan thought so too, but this axing was a puzzler. A feller was apt to git into a snarl when he axed, and snarlin warnt no fun. Prudence guessed strawberries and cream was slick. Jonathan thought they warnt so slick as Pru's lips. "Now don't," said Pru, and she gav Jonathan's arm an involuntary hug. He was a leetel started, but thought his farm wanted some female help too look arter the house. Pru knew how to make rale good bread. "Now dont," said Jonathan. "If I should," said Jonathan. "Now dont," said Pru. "Maybe you wouldnt"—and Jonathan shuck all over, and Prudence replied, "If you be comin that game you better tell feyther." "That's jist what I want," said Jonathan, and in three weeks Jonathan and Prudence were "my old man" and "my old woman."

The Montgomery Guards.—This new corps paraded yesterday. We suspect that not many of our citizens are fully acquainted with the rigid constitution of this company, nor with the full claim they have to the cordial support of our citizens. We frankly confess that we were deceived—and are happy to make the acknowledgement.

They are assuredly a fine set of men—and we know our readers will take our word for it, good citizens, who have blended the shamrock of the country of their birth or ancestors, with the eagle of the home of their adoption.—Herald.

Thunder Storm.—A violent thunder storm occurred at Savannah, last Monday week, in which a house occupied by Dunbar Morel, Esq and J. M. Lewis, was struck by lightning, on President street, the fluid entering in the centre of the building, destroying a portion of the wall which divides their dwelling. Passing through an upper room, a chest of draws was removed some eight or ten feet. Mr Lewis and family were from home, but so great was the concussion that Mrs Morel fell from her chair, and two negroes in the basement were struck speechless.

Office of the Chronicle, Mobile, Aug. 16.

Steamboat Explosion.—The Caroline, on her passage from New Orleans to this city, burst her boiler near the mouth of Dog river, in Mobile bay, with the loss of three lives, and some six or eight wounded. Smith, the pilot, was killed, and two negroes jumped overboard, who were drowned. The wounded were Capt Knight, of ship Colchis, James McCarthy, Daniel Clintock, John Harks, Wm. Crawley, and James Corn. The wreck was towed up by the steamer Champion, from Pensacola.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

BOSTON & PROVIDENCE RAIL ROAD CORPORATION,

For the direction of those Persons or Companies who may use said road, agreeably to the liberty given in the Charter, and for the prevention of disastrous consequences to persons travelling upon the road,—adopted by the Directors, August 14, 1837.

I. This Corporation will provide Locomotive Engines, with skilful Engineers and all proper apparatus, for the moving of cars and carriages loaded with passengers and goods, over the road, at all reasonable times, and at such rates as may from time to time be established, and will furnish suitable accommodations for all such cars and carriages at the Depots of the Corporation, not inconsistent with the necessary accommodation of their own cars and carriages: And no other Locomotive Engines shall be used on the road, than those belonging to the Corporation.

II. Every train of Cars or Carriages shall be attended by a lawful number of brakemen, who shall first be approved by the General Superintendent of the road, or be appointed by him, and subject to be removed by him for any misconduct.

III. Every car or carriage for the conveyance of persons or property shall be constructed upon such model as shall be approved by the Superintendent of the road, and without such approbation the same shall not be allowed to be placed upon the road.

IV. Every Car or Carriage which shall, in the opinion of the Superintendent of the road, become unsafe or unfit to be used on said road, shall immediately be disused and removed, upon orders to that effect to the person having charge of the same: And in case of his neglect to comply with such order, it shall be the duty of said Superintendent to remove the same.

V. Suitable hours shall be fixed from time to time for the running on the road of Cars and Carriages belonging to other persons or companies.

VI. No Car or Carriage shall be loaded or unloaded at any point on the rail road between its termini, except at the regular stations of the Company. 3tis aug23

THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLICANS of the several towns in the County of Middlesex, are requested to elect as many Delegates as they were entitled to representatives in the last Legislature, to attend the State Convention, to be held in Worcester, on the 3d Wednesday in September next.

By order of the Demo. County Committee,
August 9, 1837. EOWEN BUCKMAN, Chairman

☞The above call is intended to embrace all friends of the National Administration. aug10

PLYMOUTH COUNTY NOTICE.—The Democratic Republicans of the several towns in the County of Plymouth are requested to elect as many delegates as they were entitled to representatives in the last Legislature, to attend the State Convention, to be held at Worcester, on the third Wednesday in September next.

NORFOLK COUNTY NOTICE.—The citizens of the several towns in the County of Norfolk, friendly to the National Administration, are requested to elect as many delegates as they were entitled to representatives in the last legislature, to attend the State Convention, to be held at Worcester, on the third Wednesday in September next.

By order of the Democratic County Committee.
August 22, 1837.

The papers in Norfolk County are desired to publish this notice.

MECHANICS' FAIR.—To be held in FANEUIL HALL and QUINCY HALL, in September next.

☞The Board of Managers of the MECHANICS' FAIR, which commences in Boston on Monday, the 18th of September next, respectfully give notice to the Mechanics, Artizans, and Manufacturers throughout the country, that the City Authorities have kindly granted them the use of Faneuil Hall, and that Messers Livermore & Kendall, the Lessees of Quincy Hall, have politely relinquished for a few weeks one half of their extensive rooms to facilitate the objects of the Fair.

Mr THOMAS BOYD, has been appointed by the Managers, General Superintendent of the Fair, and may be found daily at Quincy Hall, to receive and register all articles sent in; and he will cause them to be so arranged as to give every visitor an opportunity of judging of the respective merits of each.

It is the intention of the Managers to have a Steam Engine placed in Quincy Hall, which will put in operation such ingenious Machines as may be offered for premium or exhibition. Grates, Stoves Cooking Ranges, Furnaces, &c. will be deposited in Quincy Hall, and may be put in operation if desired by the inventors.

As many persons have erroneously supposed that this Fair was started for "Charitable" purposes, the Managers take this occasion to state, that at the close of the exhibition, the owners of all articles offered will have the privilege of withdrawing them, or disposing of them at private or public sale, as may be most agreeable to themselves.

PROPOSALS will be received at this Office until the 1st day of September next for building a Light House, Dwelling House, &c. on Split Rock Point, Lake Champlain, of the following materials, dimensions and description:—

The Lighthouse to be built of stone or hard brick, the form round. The foundation to be sunk three feet or as much deeper as may be necessary to make the fabric secure, to be built up solid and laid in best lime mortar. The tower to be thirty feet high from the surface of the ground—the diameter of the base to be eighteen feet, and that of the top nine feet, the thickness of the walls at the base to be three feet, and to be uniformly graduated to twenty inches at the top. The top to be arched, on which is to be laid a deck of soap stone, eleven feet diameter and four inches thick—the pieces forming it to be clamped together with iron clamps set in lead, and the joints filled in with lead. On one side of the deck to be a scuttle door to enter the lantern two feet square, the frame of which to extend down the whole thickness of the arch, to be of cast iron, and the door an iron frame covered with copper at least thirty ounces to the square foot—with an iron handle on the upper, and a bolt on the lower side, and good wrought iron hinges.

The walls both inside and out to be well pointed with strong mortar, and white washed twice over at least.

There are to be three windows in the tower of twelve lights each, of eight by ten glass, in strong frames, and a door six feet by three, made of double inch boards, cross nailed, with substantial wrought iron hinges, and a good lock and latch. The door posts to be of dressed stone, at least ten inches square, the cap and stool or sill, to be of the same thickness of granite, dressed on the outside, to extend in width the whole thickness of the wall, and to which the door posts are to be permanently secured with dowels at the top and bottom. The ground floor to be well paved with brick or stone. A sufficient number of circular dressed stone stairs, not to exceed eight inches rise, to lead from the ground floor to within seven feet of the soap stone deck, one end of each step to be worked in the wall, the other to go up plum, forming a newell, guarded by a good iron hand railing, substantially secured to the wall with iron eye-bolts. From the platform at the top of the stairs, to the entrance of the lantern to be an iron ladder, with steps, the usual distance apart to equal two inches square.

On the top of the Tower to be a wrought iron frame Lantern of the octagon form, the parts of which to be one and a half inches square, to extend down into the stone or brick work five feet, and well secured with anchors. The height and diameter of the lantern to be sufficient to admit an iron sash in each octagon, to contain eighteen squares, 11 by 9—fifteen of which to be glazed with the best double glass from the Boston manufactory—the other three squares or lower tier to be of sheet copper of thirty ounces to the square foot. The rabbits of the sashes to be three quarters of an inch deep, with holes drilled in the top and bottom of each square to admit iron or copper pins to secure the panes of glass. In one of the octagons to be an iron frame door four feet high, covered with copper of thirty ounces to the square foot, to open on the out side, and to shut tight in the rabbits, with strong iron turned buttons to confine it closed. The dome to be formed of sixteen iron rafters or ribs, concentrating in an iron hoop or neck, four inches wide and nine inches diameter, covered with copper of thirty ounces to the square foot, each sheet to embrace three of the ribs and to be rivetted there o, and to extend down and rivet to the piece that forms the base of the dome, which is to be three inches wide. On the dome to be a traversing ventilator two and a half feet long and fifteen inches diameter, to which is to be secured a copper vane three feet long and twenty inches wide. The seams where the sheets of copper join in covering the dome to be substantially brazed—around the lantern to be an iron railing, the posts of which to be one and a quarter inch square, to be inserted in the stone deck at least three inches set in lead, and within six inches of its outer edge, every one of which to be continued with a sweep to join and be secured to the piece that forms the top of the sash—the upper rail to be three feet four inches from the deck, and two and a half inches wide by half an inch thick, with two other rails at equal distances below, of round iron seven-eighths of an inch diameter.

The wood work of the tower, the lantern, and iron railing to be painted twice over exclusive of the priming, with best white lead—the dome to be painted black with two coats exclusive of priming.

The Lighthouse to have a complete electrical conductor made of copper, three quarters of an inch diameter, with an approved electrical point—to be substantially secured with proper eye bolts and stays to the base, tower and dome—to extend in height at least four feet above the top of the ventilator or vane, and in depth at least four feet into the earth, forming an obtuse angle from the perpendicular of the foundation of the Lighthouse.

The Dwelling House to be of stone or hard brick, thirty-four feet by twenty from out to out; one story of eight feet in the clear, divided into two rooms with an entry between; the stairs to lead to the chambers and to the cellar, to be in the entry. A chimney with a fire place in each room, with iron or stone backs and sides. A cellar under the whole of the house with sufficient walls of stone, to support the walls of the house, which are to be twenty inches thick, the whole laid up in strong lime mortar and to be well pointed. The roof to be rectangular, the boards of which to be jointed and halved, the roof joists not to be less than three inches by five at the ridge, and three inches by seven at the foot, with cellar beams seven inches by three—the joists to be placed not over two feet apart—the whole to be well secured and covered with first quality shingles. There are to be three windows in each room, of sixteen lights of eight by ten glass each, and one of the same dimensions in each chamber. The doors to be four pannelled, with first quality hinges and thumb latch to each, a good lock on the outside door, and a bolt and thumb latch to the back passage door. A closet in each room with good lock to it. All the floors to be double and well nailed—the joists of the first floor to be twelve by three inches and of the second to be ten by three inches square, to be laid not exceeding two feet apart.

Also a Kitchen attached to the dwelling house, fourteen feet by twelve in the clear, the walls of stone or brick eight feet high, with double floors, the joists of the first floor to be twelve by three inches, and of the second ten by three inches square, two windows and one door, besides a door to communicate with the dwelling house. A chimney with a fire place, and sizeable oven with an iron door, iron crane, trammel and hooks in the fire place, and on one side of the chimney a sink with a spout leading through the wall.

Also an out house or privy at a convenient distance from the dwelling, of stone or brick, five feet by four in the clear, with a well at least eight feet deep, walled up with stone or brick—the roof to be well shingled.

Also a Well to be sunk of such depth as to procure good water, at a convenient distance from the house, to be stoned or bricked up, and furnished with a pump, or with a curb, windless and an iron chain, and a strong iron hooped bucket.

All the wood work of the Dwelling house Kitchen and out house to be painted with two coats of good paint exclusive of priming. The inside walls and ceilings to be lathed and plastered and finished smooth, and all the wood work to be finished in a plain neat style. Gutters of double tin to lead round the dwelling house and Kitchen with spouts of same material to carry off the rain water. All the lumber used to be of well seasoned yellow heart pine consequently entirely free from sap.

Above and below each window frame of the Light House must be a single stone of sufficient dimensions to reach from out to out of the frame, and extend inwards the whole thickness of the wall. And in building up the wall, if of stone, there must be an entire range of thorough stones every three feet, besides that in the intermediate space the stones must tie.

The building to be commenced as early in Spring as the absence of frost will permit, and the whole to be completed in a faithful and workmanlike manner, by the 15th day of June next.

Separate proposals will be received for fitting up the said Lighthouse, in the same manner that the lighthouses in the United States have been fitted up by Mr Winslow Lewis, in one month after the Lighthouse shall be finished, with eleven patent lamps, and eleven fourteen inch reflectors, each reflector to have six ounces of pure silver, and to furnish two spare lamps, double tin oil butts, sufficient to hold five hundred gallons of Oil—one lantern cannister and an iron trivet, one stove and funnel, one tin wick box, one tin tube box, one oil carrier, one oil feeder, six wick formers, one hand lantern and lamp, two tube cleansers, one glazier's diamond, two files and two pair of scissors. The whole to be approved by the Collector of Champlain.

N. B—No payment will be made until the whole of the above work shall be completed and approved.

D. B. McNEIL, Collector and Superintendant of Lighthouses for the District of Champlain.

Separate proposals will be received for building a Lighthouse, Dwelling House, &c. in all respects like the above, to be commenced and completed at the same time, on Cumberland Head, Lake Champlain.

PROPOSALS FOR INDIAN RIFLES.

War Department,
Office Indian Affairs, July 21, 1837.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this office until the 12 o'clock, M on the first day of September next, for furnishing, for the use of emigrant Indians.

4,500 RIFLES.

The proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for furnishing Indian Rifles," and must be accompanied by a pattern gun of each kind proposed to be furnished.

The rifles wanted are such as have heretofore been furnished to emigrating Indians. They may be described, in general terms, as carrying balls of which a pound of lead will make not less than forty-five, nor more than one hundred; and must be of a length and weight corresponding properly with the size of the ball. Each gun is to be accompanied by moulds, wiper, and such other implements as are necessary to make a complete equipment.

Each rifle to be enclosed in a first rate woollen cover, securely packed in strong boxes, with not less than twenty, nor more than twenty-five in each box.

One third to be delivered in six, one third in nine, and the remaining third in twelve months from the day of closing the contract. They must be delivered in New York, Philadelphia, or Baltimore, or at such other city or town as may be determined on by this office; not to be, however at a greater or more expensive distance from the contractor than the most distant of the above named cities. All expenses of boxing, drayage, storage, &c. until delivered as above to an authorized agent of the Government at such point in the designated city or town as may be hereafter determined on by this office and all expenses of inspection, proof, &c. to be borne by the contractor.

Seventy five per cent. of the amount due for each delivery will be paid upon the production of the proper evidence of reception by the agent aforesaid. The remaining twenty-five per cent. will not be paid until the contract is complied with.

The bids and pattern guns will be examined and compared, and the proposals decided on at this office, on or before the 1st day of October next. In this examination and comparison, an officer of the Ordnance Department will assist. Before any rifles are received, they will be rigidly and thoroughly inspected, and proved by an officer of the same department, they will not be received, unless they conform in all respects to the patterns.

The right to increase or diminish the number of rifles to be furnished, or of rejecting all the bids if deemed too high, is reserved. The bid or bids, which may, under all the circumstances, be best for the Government, will be accepted.

Bids for any number not less than 500 will be received.

Contracts will be entered into, and bonds, with satisfactory security for their faithful fulfilment on the part of the contractor, will be required. Each bid must be accompanied by the names of the persons proposed as securities. If not known to this office, their sufficiency must be satisfactorily established.

C. A. HARRIS.
Commissioner.

A REMEDY FOR Nervous Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Oppression of the Breast, Flatulency, Costiveness, Flying Pains in the side, arms and limbs, for the impurity of the blood, canker and humors, it is the best remedy ever offered to the public—pleasant to take, mild and safe in all cases. For sale at my office, No 59 Union st. Boston, first door South of the National Gallery, lately occupied by the Zoological Institute, nearly opposite the Baptist church. Also for sale at several apothecaries in the city and country. Price $1,25 with the pills.

CERTIFICATES.

Scituate, March 12, 1836.

I was afflicted six years with Dispepsia. No physicians nor medicines gave me relief—I suffered much, and was reduced very low—a friend of mine recommended to me the Jelly of Pomegranate. I bought two bottles, and used one and two thirds of another, and I am entirely cured—it is now three months since, and have had no ill turn.

HANNAH LITCHFIELD.

Cohasset, March 13, 1836. My child, a girl six years old, was afflicted with a humor ever since two years of age, and it began to be very troublesome, principally on the head and face. I bought the Jelly Pomegranate and Salt Rheum Ointment, prepared by Dr Gordak, used it according to his directions, and in one week my child was cured—it is now six months since, and no humor has appeared again.

WM. BROWN.

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. Two months before I applied to Dr Gordak, was taken with a Cough, attended with a dull head ache—the cough kept growing worse—a shortness of breath appeared, and I kept losing flesh very fast—in short it was alarming. I applied to Dr Gordak—he gave me two kinds of medicine—the Jelly of Pomegranate, and Pulmonary Jelly—I took the medicine according to his directions, and received immediate relief—in the course of 14 days I was entirely cured.

NELSON F. ROBY.

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. I was subject to canker in the stomach, throat and mouth about a year since—it troubled me very much—I was recommended to make use of the Jelly of Pomegranate and Pills, prepared by Dr Gordak. I used the medicine with astonishing success—in five or six days I was entirely cured, and ever since have been free of canker. I really think there is no medicine for canker equal to the Jelly Pomegranate.

ELIZABETH L. MERRITT.

Boston, July 4, 1836. Dr Gordak, Sir: I cannot help acknowledging my gratitude to you for the cure I received, in the use of your Jelly Pomegranate and Pills. My disease was a universal weakness—I was so low that I was unable to walk out of the house, and continued to grow weaker every day. I used your Jelly Pomegranate and Pills with such success, that in one week I was entirely cured.

JOHN BURNS.

Dorchester, Nov. 6, 1836. I have for several years been afflicted with a humor, which was very troublesome—about 6 months ago I was advised to call on Dr Gordak—he recommended to me the Jelly of Pomegranate and Salt Rheum Ointment, which I used according to his directions, and in a short time I was entirely cured, which I can fully testify.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S CLEBRATED PATENT ELONGATED METALLIC PEN.—JOSEPH GILLOTT begs to inform the public that he is constantly receiving from his manufactory at Birmingham, a regular supply of his most approved Metallic Pens. The stock on hand comprises the best assortment in the United States, and of warranted good quality—amongst which may be found his—

Patent Magnum Bonum Commercial Pen—Original Patent Slip Pen—do do Ladies Pen—with elongated Points—Royal Letters. Patent granted Sept. 27, 1831.

Also—Double Damascus Barrel Pens—Lunars—Peruvian—New York Fountain—Damascus—and various other kinds—put up in a variety of styles, viz: on cards of one dozen with rosewood and albata holders, in morocco cases, morocco cards and shell boxes.

Albata Everpoint and Pen and Everpoint Pencil Cases—Holders of every description.

CAUTION.

To the Public.—From the well-merited and universal celebrity of the above Pens, as attested by the whole mercantile community in Europe and the United States, several unprincipled makers have endeavored to impose upon the public, by a spurious imitation, purporting to be the original JOSEPH GILLOTT'S PATENT, but which are utterly worthless, and entirely destitute in those qualities requisite to fine writing, which have established such an unparalleled demand for the original in every country where it is known!!

The public are hereby cautioned to be upon their guard against these counterfeits, they may readily be detected by their unfinished appearance, and by the inferior style in which they are sent into the market, in their attempt to delude the unwary.

Further to guard against the fraudulent imposition, the public will please to observe that each groce of the genuine Pen is enveloped in a neatly printed wrapper, descriptive of the article it contains.

Each patent Pen marked thus, "Joseph Gillott's Patent"—and all other kinds are marked either "Joseph Gillott's Warranted" or "Joseph Gillott Maker"—in every instance the mark reading from the point of the Pen.

The above may be had, wholesale at 199 Beckman street, N. York, and GEO. H. GRAY & CO. Boston.

N. B. A regular supply of warranted Screw Copying Presses, constantly on hand. ep6m jy15

PECK'S PATENT PLATFORM BALANCES.

L. LOCKE would respectfully invite the attention of those in want of weighing apparatus, to an examination of the above, as these Balances contain several useful improvements over any other scale of the kind now in use, and for both accuracy and convenience are not surpassed by any. They have given entire satisfaction to those who have purchased, used and tested them. They are manufactured in the best manner, by experienced workmen, and warranted.

Purchasers will have the privilege of returning them after giving them a fair trial, if not satisfied with them. In introducing the above scales to the notice of the public, the subscriber would say, that it is with entire confidence that he will be able to meet the wishes and expectations of those who may favor him with their custom.

Please call and examine them at the manufactory No 3 Fulton st, (near the corner, rear of Commercial street, Boston,) where may be found, also, a good assortment of the Dearborn Patent Balances, Scale Beams, and most other kinds of weighing apparatus in use, for sale wholesale or retail, on the most liberal terms.

N. B. Balances repaired in the best manner, and warranted.

Boston Truss Manufactory.

THE subscriber would respectfully direct the attention of the public, and of the medical profession, to his establishment at No 63 Court street and particularly refers them to the approbation of the eminent Surgeons, whose names he has the liberty to subjoin as evidence of the success which has attended his endeavours to improve the structure and enhance the utility of the Truss.

By his recent invention "The Anatomical Self Regulating Truss," he believes that the desideratum so long attempted, has been obtained, as in this instrument, the convenience of adaptation, the certainty of direct compression, and the advantages derived from the fact, that the management of the Truss, whether regarding neatness or adjustment, is practicable by the patient, have been made abundantly manifest.

Relying upon the long established, and as he hopes, deservedly, high reputation of his manufactory, he trusts that the patronage of the community will continue.

Trusses adapted to every variety of Hernie, whether in the infant or adult, for Umbilical Prolapsus and other analogous diseases—Suspensaries and in general every instrument of this class, are kept constantly on hand, or will be made at the shortest notice.

Artificial Legs are made and warranted to walk with ease, also, machines for remedying deformed or crooked Feet, which will be adapted to any case, according to its exigency.

Surgical and Dental Instruments of every description made and repaired.

Ladies wishing for either Trusses or Grecian Belts, can be attended by Mrs Beath.

It is presumed that the subjoined list of references will preclude the necessity of further remark.

J. W. PHELPS, No 63 Court street.

RETURN

THIS VALUABLE INSTRUMENT and receive your money if you are dissatisfied. THOMPSON'S NEW PATENT TRUSS, superior to all others ever yet invented. The principle has finally been discovered by which a permanent cure of the Hernia (or rupture) can be effected. Numerous certificates have been published and may be seen at the Agent's room, 297 Washington street, (being same house Dr Hewett keeps his rooms) and from gentlemen of the first respectability who have been cured by wearing them. It is not only the easiest to wear of any Truss ever invented, but it keeps the rupture (by an ingenious lock) perfectly safe, so that the patient can ride or labor just as well as though he was not afflicted with the Hernia. The success attending its use, and the constantly increasing demand for it is so great, that it may with perfect confidence be recommended, with the assurance that there is no imposition in the article. A trial of this instrument is its best recommendation, and any gentleman can have the privilege of wearing it six days on trial, at the expiration of which time, if there be dissatisfaction, the article will be taken back, and the money returned.

Boston, July 13, 1837.

BANGOR SLATES.—For sale, a good assortment of Bangor Slates, consisting of imperials and 16 by 8 inch, and 14 by 8 inch, best ladies. ALBANY AND TROY PACKETS.—REGULAR LINE.

Schooner	VISSCHER,	Owen Bearse, master.
"	GRECIAN,	A. Watson, "
"	BENJ. BIGELOW,	F. Wells, "
"	VICTOR,	John Cammett, "
"	DEBORAH,	D. A. Allen, "
"	STRANGER	Nelson Bearse, "
"	NIAGARA,	Andrew Lovell, "
"	ALBANY,	Edwin Scudder, "

These vessels are all of the first class, with experienced masters, who are likewise first rate pilots.

The owners of this line, to avoid detention by head winds and shoal water, in the narrow and shoal part of the river near Albany, have purchased (to be used by this line) the Steam Boat "WADSWORTH," as a tow boat and lighter, which, with the lighter Grampus, of ninety tons, built the last season expressly for this line, they think will prevent the delay hitherto experienced at that place, and insure punctuality and dispatch. Merchandise by this line, destined to places on the northern, western or Ohio Canals, northern and western Lakes, &c. &c. &c. will be forwarded by the Agents without delay.

These packets will sail regularly on Wednesday and Saturday of each week, from opposite No 15 Long wht, north side, Boston, and from the piers at Albany and Troy.

The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

Agents at Boston—BANGS & ALLCOTT, 15 Long wharf.
Agents at Albany—GAY & WILLARD, 104 Pier, foot of State st. Agents at Troy—GAY & WILLARD, 189 River street. eptf mh3

TO FISHING AND PLEASURE PARTIES.

THE subscriber would respectfully inform his friends and the public that he has put his fast sailing pleasure boat TREMONT in complete repair, and is ready to attend upon those who may favor him with their patronage. The Tremont is a first rate boat, (about 15 tons,) and was built expressly to accommodate Fishing and Pleasure parties, and will accommodate from 20 to 30 persons. The subscriber has likewise a number of smaller boats to accommodate those who do not wish for so large a boat. No pains will be spared to supply his boats with all necessary conveniences, and he respectfully solicits a continuance of that public favor which has been bestowed upon him in former seasons. The boats can be had at short notice, by leaving orders at BENJ F. MAHAN'S, No 71 Long wharf, where they can be furnished with stores, lines, cooking apparatus, &c.

REMOVAL.

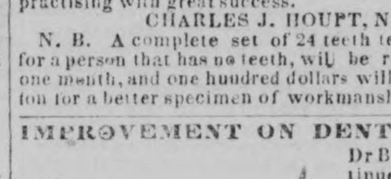

INCORRUPTIBLE PORCELAIN TEETH.—The subscriber returns his sincere thanks to the citizens of Boston for the liberal patronage he has received from them during the last year—he has now removed his office to a more central situation, and owing to the great number of teeth inserted by him daily, he is enabled to reduce his terms at least 50 per cent on all operations from this date. The average price for the best Porcelain Teeth will be, on gold plate $3, pivot $1 to 1 50, filling and cleaning 75 cents to $1. and all operations warranted for the term of five years. He will continue to visit persons at their residence and complete any operations in two visits half an hour each. He has within the last three years instructed several Dentists in this city, who are now practising with great success.

CHARLES J. HOUPT, No 11 Winter street.

N. B. A complete set of 24 teeth to masticate with ease, for a person that has no teeth, will be ready for inspection in one month, and one hundred dollars will be paid on presentation for a better specimen of workmanship. jan19

IMPROVEMENT ON DENTAL SURGERY.

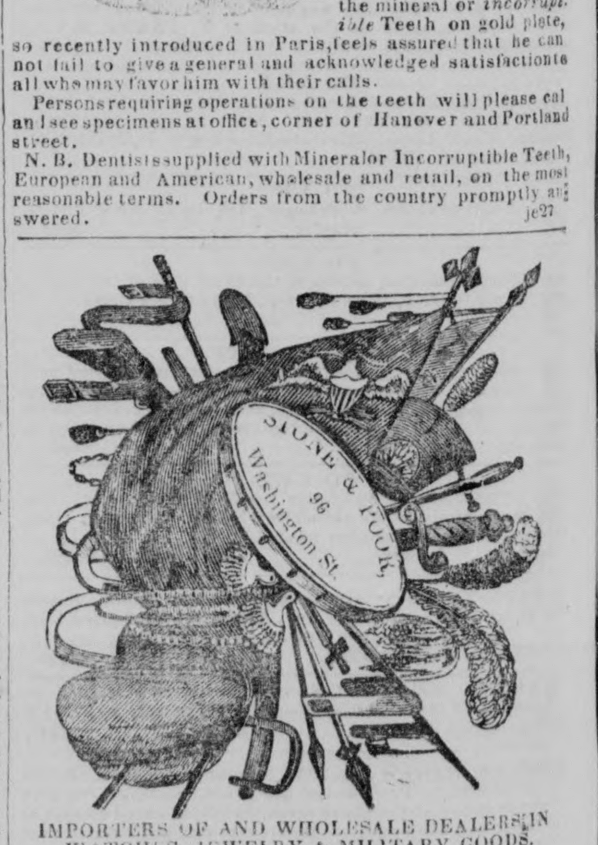

Dr B. T. PRESCOTT continues to perform all the necessary operations on the Teeth, both for their beauty and preservation.

Dr P. having obtained the latest and highly approved method of inserting the mineral or incorruptible Teeth on gold plate, so recently introduced in Paris, feels assured that he can not fail to give a general and acknowledged satisfaction to all who may favor him with their calls.

Persons requiring operations on the teeth will please call and see specimens at office, corner of Hanover and Portland street.

N. B. Dentists supplied with Mineral or Incorruptible Teeth, European and American, wholesale and retail, on the most reasonable terms. Orders from the country promptly answered. je27
